CEO of Balonne Shire Council, Matthew has had a diverse career: working in the retail sector, managing large supermarkets and department stores; in the association environment as CEO of an economic development, member-based association; and in both state and federal governments. He also worked as a consultant to North Queensland Bulk Ports Corporation. He has a wide breadth of experience encompassing the commercial, political, public and private sectors which he has now brought to the local government context. He first joined local government as the CEO of Burdekin Shire Council and is now in the process of transforming Balonne Shire Council.

Matthew's leadership philosophy is to train and develop the people around him to create a professional, efficient and empowered workforce. As an LGMA Queensland board member, Matthew is seeking to ensure that LGMA continues to facilitate that development, supporting councils and CEOs across the state as they enhance the capabilities of their organisations.
